The Melting Pot fondue restaurant plans to build two new North Texas locations

Fondue restaurant company The Melting Pot Restaurants Inc. is looking to dip further into North Texas with two new locations.

The Melting Pot said on Friday that it is looking for franchisees to open two additional branches. The company is targeting McKinney or downtown Dallas for the first location and north Fort Worth or downtown Fort Worth for the second.

Arlington and Addison are already home to Melting Pot restaurants.

"The Melting Pot concept is backed by 30 years of experience in franchising and 40 years of brand recognition, making this an ideal business opportunity for entrepreneurs," said Dan Stone, vice president of franchise development for Front Burner Brands, the restaurant's management company. "Given the size of the Dallas and Houston metro areas and the demand for high quality dining we know exists there, we look forward to expanding our presence in the state so that we can provide our unique fondue experience to even more guests."

Fondue fanatics can visit 130 Melting Pot venues in 35 states, Canada and Mexico. More than 20 additional locations are under development.
